

COMIDA CALLEJERA

La calle boricua · free sample

A free taste of the guide — bilingual, mainland-tested, with ingredient swaps. Get the full guide at sofritostudio.com.

Mainland-tested · From the Ortiz kitchen

Hecho con corazón y sofrito · sofritostudio.com

Alcapurrias — Authentic Puerto Rican Stuffed Fritters Recipe

Alcapurrias

The ultimate Puerto Rican street food — shredded green banana and yautía fritters stuffed with seasoned ground beef.

Ingredients

- 2 green bananas
- 1 lb yautía (taro root)
- 1/4 cup vegetable oil
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 lb ground beef
- 1/4 cup sofrito
- 1 packet sazón con culantro y achiote
- 1/2 cup tomato sauce
- Manzanilla olives (optional)

Steps

1. Peel and grate the green bananas and yautía. Mix together in a large bowl with the oil and salt to form a soft masa (dough).
2. Cook the ground beef in a skillet with sofrito, sazón, tomato sauce, and olives until fully browned and saucy. Let cool slightly.
3. Take a handful of masa, flatten it into an oval on your palm, place a generous spoonful of filling in the center, and fold the masa over to enclose the filling. Shape into a torpedo.
4. Heat oil to 350°F in a deep pot. Carefully lower alcapurrias into the oil and fry for 5-7 minutes, turning occasionally, until golden brown all over.
5. Drain on paper towels. Serve hot with ketchup, mayo, or a hot sauce of your choice.

Bacalaítos — Authentic Puerto Rican Codfish Fritters Recipe

Bacalaitos

Salty, crispy codfish fritters that every Puerto Rican grew up eating at the beach, at parties, and from street vendors.

Ingredients

- 1 cup salt cod (bacalao) soaked overnight
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1/4 cup parsley, chopped
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- Oil for frying

Steps

1. Drain the soaked cod and shred it finely with your fingers, removing any skin or bones.
2. In a large bowl, whisk together the flour and baking powder. Add water gradually, mixing until you have a thick but pourable batter.
3. Fold in the shredded cod, minced garlic, and chopped parsley. Season with black pepper — go easy on salt until you taste, since the cod is already salty.
4. Heat oil to 350°F in a deep skillet or pot. Drop spoonfuls of batter into the hot oil, flattening slightly.
5. Fry 2-3 minutes per side until deep golden brown. Drain on paper towels and serve hot with a squeeze of lime.

Free sample — the full guide has every recipe, the timeline, and the swaps at sofritostudio.com.